Adobe has always been a platform for creativity, and the current release of Photoshop on the web continues that strategy. It will unleash the power of creativity by enabling you to work on projects with other creative professionals while preserving the image quality and workflow that only Photoshop can deliver, wherever you are—as long as you have a web browser. That's because the Adobe Creative Cloud is available in a subscription service, so you can easily sign-up now and get started immediately. Adobe Sensei AI – Photoshop's AI technology, powered by Adobe Sensei, makes it possible to take photographs without people having to press the shutter button. Adobe Sensei now understands the capabilities of a smartphone, and has learned to automatically recognize a person and focus even in low light conditions. It's now much easier than ever before to take a selfie, or a phone image and make it a high-quality photograph. It uses computer vision and deep learning to teach a system to make correct decisions. Adobe Sensei has a much higher recall; and it can detect objects in the context of a broader understanding of a person and their environment than ever before. * Smart Objects – Photoshop on the web will enable you to easily create smart objects with features such as image-to-vector stamping and PDF export and import. Smart objects retain their original document or page formatting and can be easily dragged and manipulated in any way that you see fit. You can also create borders around a layer, just like you do in the traditional versions of Photoshop.
